Joni's Story (eBay ID: sandiegana)

After reading your story about how well Starbucks mugs sell on eBay, I bought three Starbucks mugs that had been sitting on the shelf at my favorite thrift store for several weeks. They were 65 cents each, and even though they were really beautiful, I had hesitated to buy them. I figured that everyone who wanted a Starbucks mug probably had one, but then I read your article and thought, "What have I got to lose? I'll try it." I listed all three at $9.99 each. The first two sold the first week out, one for $9.99, and one for $10.50. I was pleased about that, but disappointed that no one had bid on the third one, which was the one I thought was the prettiest. I decided to relist it at auction for one more week, keeping the opening bid at $9.99. This time, two buyers got into a bidding war with each other, and they ended up bidding 5 times – and the mug sold for $41.00! I learned two very important lessons with this deal; first, always believe what Lynn says, and second, don't give up after the first week!

Thank you so much – and seriously, Lynn, thank you for all you do. You have a wonderful spirit, and a great gift for teaching!
